Westover Villas … 7 and 8 … page 1

A view of villas 7 and 8 taken through a gap in the foliage from the gardens opposite. A second semi-detached pair of villas, similar in style to numbers 1 and 2, and also 11 and 12. There is a suggestion that these semi-detached villas were perhaps slightly less grand than their detached neighbours? Still impressive though!
Difficult to date this photo – although there is some indefinable suggestion that it is possibly later rather than earlier?

Note that the Belle Vue (Pier) Hotel still stands almost touching the new Pavilion, at the very bottom of the picture.

In Westover Rd we see only villas 7 and 8 still standing. The Westover Garage (before the ice rink) to their right, and Westover Palace to the left. The foundations of the Regent (Gaumont/Odeon) cinema can be seen on the extreme right.

A real time of change in Westover Rd!
